

Court Bonds

One of the most challenging aspects of underwriting court bonds can be dealing with attorneys and legal jargon. Because each court bond is unique, understanding what kind of bond the client is asking for, identifying the risk and knowing how to properly draft the bond are all critical. That's why Surety Group, a member of Tokio Marine HCC, has a department dedicated entirely to Court Bonds.

While most sureties have their commercial underwriters handle Court Bonds, our underwriters have specialized training and deal with Court Bond matters daily. We are the Court Bond experts.

The Advantage: Flexibility

Greater understanding means greater flexibility. Because our Court Bond underwriters understand how to accurately assess the risk in any specific court bond, we are often able to write bonds without collateral that others typically default to collateral.

If collateral is necessary, our procedure for securing and releasing collateral is simple and straightforward.

We also offer numerous avenues for collateralization including:

- Cash collateral
- Letters of Credit
- Deeds of Trust or Mortgages on Real Property
- Assignments of Securities / Account Control Agreements
- Pledged control agreements

We are even able to write bonds that are not based in statute, but rather based on agreement of the parties or court order.

Our expertise allows us to facilitate standard and complex bonds and also assist the client and attorneys in achieving effective exoneration of the bonds. We are here for you from A to Z.

Tokio Marine HCC is the expert on all court bonds, judicial or fiduciary. Our goal is to make it easy for you to write Court Bond business. If you need assistance with any court bond, let us be your first call.
